

The New Era of Hybrid Work Better Is Possible

Join us for a discussion about what we can learn from everything we've been through to create a better work experience for people. As the global pandemic has fundamentally changed everyone and everything in some way, Steelcase has remained committed to a science-based and data-driven approach. We've released robust new research that includes:

8+ Primary Studies

10 Countries

32,000 Surveys + Conversations

8,000 Floorplans Analyzed

Our research has uncovered five new needs and expectations people have for a better work experience. And these new needs will require four macro shifts in the way we think about buildings and the workplace.

It's time to move forward and use what we've learned to make work better.
